

Stephen Olufemi Sodeke, PhD, MA
Resident Bioethicist, Center for Biomedical
Research
Professor of Bioethics and Allied Health
Sciences
College of Arts & Sciences
Tuskegee University

DR. STEPHEN OLUFEMI SODEKE is currently Resident Bioethicist at the Center for Biomedical Research, and Professor of Bioethics in the College of Arts and Sciences, Tuskegee University. Over the years, he has served as Associate Director and Director of the Tuskegee University Bioethics Center. He chairs the Tuskegee University Institutional Board, and serves on the Alabama Rare Disease Council. His research interests are in the areas of community bioethics, research ethics, genetics, neuro-ethics, health and human rights; ethical issues raised by participation in clinical trials, health disparity, research with vulnerable populations in the United States and in the developing world.