

Charlease Hatchett
CEO/FOUNDER
God is Bigger Than Ministries

HatchettCharlease McCauley Hatchett is a remarkable individual with a multifaceted journey. As an international bible study teacher, her passion for sharing the word of God has spanned over 27 years, touching the lives of countless individuals around the world. Her dedication to volunteer work has been exemplified through her involvement with Precept Ministries, where she selflessly contributed her time and expertise.

Charlease is not only a Co-Author of "The Ultimate Faith Based Entrepreneur's Guide: Lift, Launch, Lead" and "The Unstoppable Black Woman Anthology Series," but she is also an inspiring survivor. Eight years ago, she triumphed over Non-Hodgkin's Large B Cell Lymphoma, a battle that showcased her resilience and unwavering faith.

In recent years, Charlease embarked on a new path as an entrepreneur, founding "God is Bigger Than Ministries," where she serves as the dedicated CEO. Her desire to support those navigating the challenging terrain of cancer led her to establish the "Combat Ready Cancer Ministry Program" at Fallbrook Church in Houston, TX. Additionally, she founded the "Connected Through Cancer Foundation," a 501(c)(3) organization committed to advancing health equity, providing education on clinical trials, and offering resources to empower individuals in their cancer journeys.

Charlease holds a B.S. degree from Longwood University in Virginia, a testament to her commitment to education. Currently residing in Spring, TX, she shares her life with her loving husband, J. Harold Hatchett, III, and is the proud parent of two adult children. Charlease McCauley Hatchett's life story is one of faith, resilience, and a deep commitment to making a positive impact on the lives of others.
